Congress Recall Seen unless Civil Rights Bill Altered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 72-18 Senate vote returned the civil rights bill to the House today amid reports President Eisenhower will call Congress back in November unless he gets a measure he feels he can sign.

The Senate's jury trial version of the bill was roundly condemned by civil rights advocates, but they helped supply the votes for the historic passage of the measure Wednesday night. It is the first of its kind approved by the Senate in more than 80 years.

The fate of the bill was uncertain in the House, which passed a measure much broader in scope and more stringent in enforcement provisions by a 286-126 vote.

But some House members who had spoken out most bitterly against the Senate changes were starting to talk more of compromises, expressing hope they still could salvage a bill they could consider worthwhile.

Because of the uncertainties, Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California reported it was "too early to say" whether a special civil rights session might be called in November.

* * *

OTHER SENATORS said Knowland had told the Senate Republican Policy Committee in a closed meeting that a special session is a definite possibility if the Senate's version of the bill is not amended to conform more nearly to Eisenhower's wishes. Either the House or a Senate-House conference committee could make the changes, but in either case the Senate would have to approve later.

Eisenhower declined at his news conference Wednesday to shed any light on a possible veto. But responsible administration officials have said he will reject the measure if the jury trial provision is not revised.

Any such veto would be likely to be accompanied by the announcement that Congress will be called back to Washington this fall, these officials said. A special session call would be likely also, they added, if Congress decided not to act finally in this session.

No Republican senators voted against passage of the bill when the roll was called Wednesday night after nearly five weeks of debate. The 18 Democrats who voted against it were all Southerners except for Sen. Morse of Oregon.

Five senators from Southern states, all Democrats, voted for passage. They were Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader; Yarborough of Texas; Kefauver and Gore of Tennessee; and Smathers of Florida.

In all, 43 Republicans and 29 Democrats voted for passage.

As it passed the Senate, the bill would authorize the attorney general to seek court injunctions to enforce minority voting rights. The House had voted for similar authority also to enforce civil rights in general but the Senate knocked this out of the measure.

The House rejected all proposals for jury trials. The Senate wrote into the bill a far-reaching provision for jury trials in any federal court criminal contempt case involving issuance of an injunction. The Senate provided that juries in such cases must be open to the inclusion of Negro members.

Khrush Warns West of War

Red Chieftain Raps Policies on Germany

BERLIN (AP) — Russian Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev today warned that the explosion of war over Germany would bring the United States under the threat of attack from hydrogen rockets.

Khrushchev told a special session of the East German Parliament the Western powers are trying to turn West Germany into a war base and are creating "an extremely serious situation."

"They want to use the German people as cannon fodder in their plans to conquer the world," the Red chieftain declared.

The speech parroted numerous other blasts from Khrushchev. Presumably this time it was intended to scare West German voters who on Sept. 15 elect a new parliament and decide whether to retain the government of staunchly pro-Western, anti - Communist Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Before Khrushchev spoke, East German Premier Otto Grotewohl restated his regime's endorsement of the long-standing Soviet proposal for the withdrawal of Russian and Western troops from German soil.

* * *

WARNING THAT modern warfare could lead to the devastation of densely populated areas, Khrushchev declared:

"This destructive power should be kept in mind by statesmen of England, France and other countries whose areas would be in range of atomic and hydrogen weapons in case military operations start.

"Statesmen of the United States should also think about it as in our time, where rocket developments are rapid, distances cannot save any country from the effects of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

The Russian added that "all these people must think about this who refuse to follow a peaceful policy and refuse to join in a disarmament agreement."

36 Farm Commodity Groups Merge To Boom Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new national farm group has entered the agricultural promotion field.

It is a conference of 36 specialized farm commodity organizations formed at a two-day closed meeting which ended here Wednesday. Operating independently in the past, they decided to join hands in an attempt to get what they called improved federal farm aid measures.

This decision to work together was made, a spokesman said, because of a sharp division of views among present general farm organizations and members of Congress over Eisenhower administration agricultural policies and over substitute proposals.

The conference will hold another meeting here Sept. 25-26 to go over individual commodity program plans expected to be developed in the meantime by an arrangements committee.

A final meeting to put the proposals into shape for presentation to Congress next year will be held some time in December. The spokesman said there is no present intention of making the conference a permanent organization to compete with the big national organizations.

In the meantime, the four major farm organizations will hold annual conventions to draft platforms and policy statements, also for Congress. These organizations include the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers Union, the National Grange and the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives.

Before adjourning Wednesday, the conference agreed on two things—(1) there is need for more rigid restrictions on imports of competitive farm products and (2) a better standard is needed for measuring fair farm prices as they relate to prices charged farmers.

E. M. Norton of Washington, secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation, was named chairman of the conference arrangements committee. It was largely through his efforts that the specialized farm groups met.

Pair Injured As Car Careens

Two persons were slightly injured in a one-car crash on Route 22 about three miles west of Circleville yesterday.

Susie M. Guckes, 66, Cincinnati, driver of the car, and Dorothy Guckes, 27, a passenger, suffered numerous body bruises. They were treated by a local physician.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Felkey said the car apparently went out of control as it attempted to pass a truck, crashing into the ditch. The auto was heavily damaged.

SHOT STRAYING BOY FRIEND — Red-haired Mrs. Beatrice E. Castelluzzo, 34, left, divorced mother of two, is hustled from the courthouse in Portland, Me., after arraignment in the killing of James H. Speirs, Jr., 36, divorced father of five. She said she shot him for running around with another woman. She said she found the car she bought for him parked near the other woman's home.

Indicted Russian Spy Held By Federal Agents in Texas

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — A thin, balding alien, accused of being a top-ranking Soviet spy who specialized in atomic and military secrets, was held here today for return to New York, where he quietly posed as an artist for nine years.

Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, 55, a colonel of Russian intelligence, was arraigned Wednesday on espionage charges returned in a federal grand jury indictment in Brooklyn. He is the highest ranking Red agent ever accused of spying for Russia in this country.

Abel, who entered the United States from Canada in 1948, was being held for deportation in the nearby McAllen Detention Camp for Aliens when the indictment was returned Wednesday. He had been held only as an illegal alien under the name of Emil R. Goldfus, an alias he assumed while working as an obscure photographic artist in Brooklyn.

The government claimed in the event of war, Abel was set up in Brooklyn to receive sabotage instructions from Moscow.

* * *

ABEL WAS linked to a Kremlin master spy who was involved in the first big espionage scandal after World War II.

Four Russians were named as coconspirators with Abel, but not as defendants. They included Vitali G. Pavlov, who headed a Russian secret police network based in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, Canada. It was broken up in 1945 after the arrest of atomic-traitor Dr. Alan Nunn May.

Exposure of the spy plot reportedly resulted from Reino Hayhanen's defection to the West. He was named as a coconspirator in the Abel indictment and appeared Wednesday before the grand jury.

Hayhanen was described as a trained Red espionage agent who spent six years in the United States. After his return to Europe, he was said to have sought haven in the West.

He was flown to New York for the grand jury hearing.

Government agents found maps of Baltimore, Chicago, New York, Long Island and other places. The government also said they found short-wave radios through which it claimed Abel got his orders from the Kremlin.

168 Candidates File Petitions

Seven Tax Levies Ready for Voters

A spate of 55 nominating petitions filed with the Board of Education before the 4 p. m. deadline yesterday brought the total number of candidates in the November races for village, township and school board posts to 168.

The last nominee to put his name on the ballot was William F. Crist who at 3:30 p. m. filed a petition for the Washington Twp. local board of education. The first petition received for a county office this year was from Paul Long who back on January 22 filed for the Monroe Twp. board of Trustees.

Seven tax levies have been placed on the ballot. Residents of Circleville, New Holland, Ashville, Orient, and Saltcreek, Monroe and Darby Townships will be asked to approve or reject higher tax rates.

The complete slate of candidates for township trustees, boards of education and various village offices will be published in tomorrow's edition of The Herald.

'Sin Taxes' Seen As Saving Slate

HANCOCK, N. H. (AP)—A state senator said today the success of a new record state budget depends on the amount of revenue New Hampshire gets from "sin taxes" on liquor, tobacco and gambling.

Sen. Robert English (R-Hancock) said a newly enacted $38 million state budget "will work out all right if you, your friends, and our summer and winter visitors keep right on having a 'nip' before dinner, smoke plenty of cigarets and drop in on race meetings."

Revenue from these three sources bring in more than $12 million a year, more than half the state's general fund revenue.

Warmer Predicted

Fair skies and a little warmer temperature is predicted tonight and tomorrow in this area.

Although the weather has been on the cool pleasant side here for the past few days, forecasts indicate that warmer air headed this way will push the mercury slightly upward during the next day or so.

Big Steel Denies Price Hike Causes Inflation

Dio Slugs Photographer

Racketeer Angered At Senate Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor terrorist Johnny Dio slugged a photographer and cursed him today for taking his picture in the Senate Office Building, where Dio is to testify later in the Senate rackets probe.

The dapper, blazing eyed Dio planted a roundhouse swing with his left fist on the left ear of Stanley Tretick, a United Press photographer.

He called the photographer a SOB in the spelled out version.

The blow did not knock down the photographer, and he did not swing back.

Dio's exhibition came about the time one of his henchmen was invoking the Fifth Amendment during testimony.

Bulgy, bespectacled Sidney Hodes of Brooklyn refused to tell the special Senate rackets committee whether he helped Dio set up "phony" unions.

The investigators contend Dio used such unions as a device to extort from employers and also misused the dues of rank and file union members.

The committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), planned to call Dio later in the day for questioning about allegations from McClellan that Dio and Teamsters Union boss James R. Hoffa formed a corrupt alliance in a grab for power in New York area unions.

McClellan contends the alliance gave Hoffa what he called strangle-hold power over organized labor in New York, and swelled Dio's reputed $1 million- a -year income from labor and other rackets.

* * *

DIO, UNDER indictment in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, was paroled from jail in New York long enough to testify before the committee. He is being held to await sentence on shakedown conspiracy charges.

Now the Midwest boss of the giant Teamsters Union, Hoffa is considered the front runner for the union's presidency. Dave Beck the present Teamsters president, is stepping out after refusing to tell the committee whether he misappropriated hundreds of thousands of dollars of Teamster funds.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's chief counsel, said others who may testify today are Abe Brier and Nat Gordon.

There has been testimony that they took command of "phantom" Teamster locals, allegedly formed in New York with Hoffa's help. These Teamster locals allegedly had officers but no members until Dio switched dues payers into them from other labor groups he controlled.

Fredericktown's GOP Slate Arrives Too Late for Filing

COLUMBUS (AP) — Will Republicans get a chance to run for office in November in the Knox County village of Fredericktown?

That question is up in the air today because the slate of Republican candidates was delivered to the county board of elections office 45 minutes past the 4 p. m. Wednesday filing deadline. The deadline is set by state law.

However, Republicans will try again to file the list of candidates, following a conference here with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Fred McNutt, a Republican candidate for council, had a general discussion with Brown, who said, "We think the law is pretty clear, but there is a circumstance that enters into that that doesn't give me any opportuniy to judge."

Brown said he was told McNutt's wife tried to file the slate at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday but the board of elections was not open then.

"The Republicans are going back again to ask the board to accept the petitions," Brown said. "If the board doesn't, there's a possibility of a friendly suit to ask the court to instruct the board to accept the petitions and put the names of the candidates on the ballot," he added.

Brown said the fact the board was not open when filing originally was attempted would be the basis of the suit.

"They do have an unfortunate situation," Brown commented. "The law says the petitions have to be filed by 4 p.m."

Mrs. McNutt said she understood the board was open until 5:30 p.m. and said, "I'm just sick about it."

The village of 1,467 persons will elect a mayor, clerk, treasurer, six councilmen and three members of a board of public affairs.

The incumbent mayor is a Democrat, as is the clerk. The treasurer is a Republican, four councilmen are Republicans as are two members of the board of public affairs.

Mystery Car Found Burned On Route 762

A 1957 car, completely destroyed by fire, was found today on Route 762 near the Scioto River bridge.

Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said ownership of the car was undetermined. Investigation revealed that the spare tire had been removed from the mysterious auto.

The burned-out vehicle was discovered today by Myron Hudson, service station operator on Route 104 and 762. Deputy Radcliff said the license plates had been removed, making it impossible to determine ownership immediately.

OK for McElroy Seen as Routine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders said today that Neil H. McElroy, soap company executive, should win speedy confirmation as secretary of defense.

But he must wait at least a week and agree to dispose of his holdings in some corporations that now have defense and government contracts.

The nomination of McElroy, 52, president of Procter & Gamble Co., went to the Senate Wednesday a few hours after President Eisenhower had described him as "one of the most capable men and the highest type of people that I know in the country

He succeeds Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, 67, whose formal resignation was sent to the White House.

"He's a fine man," Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), Senate Republican leader, said of McElroy. "As far as I know there will be no trouble about confirmation."

* * *

NO DATE WAS announced for McElroy's taking over the post, but in Cincinnati McElroy said it probably would be a couple of months.

It was learned that Wilson, former president of General Motors who ran into some delay before winning confirmation in 1953, already had helped McElroy pave the way for confirmation.

The veteran Pentagon chief arranged conferences with Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Sen. Byrd (D-Va), and Knowland before McElroy's name was sent up officially.

McElroy is a director of both General Electric and Chrysler Corp., large defense contractors, and must dispose of those interests.

Russell said McElroy already had discussed this with him and other senators.

"There should be no difficulty about conflict of interests," Russell said. "Of course, we will have a hearing to satisfy the committee and the Senate on this point and on his background."

Majority Leader Johnson said he had met McElroy only recently "although I knew of his accomplishments as an executive."

"I believe him to be a frank and forthright person of considerable capability," he said.

McElroy joined Procter and Gamble after graduating from Harvard in 1925. He rose to the top through the sales and promotion end of the big organization.

As a corporation executive, McElroy has been paid $285,000 a year, more than 10 times the $25,000 pay of the defense boss.

Both Ohio senators, Bricker (R) and Lausche (D), praised McElroy as a longtime friend and widely known Ohio civic leader.

First Ground Shots Fired In Oman

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP)—The first ground shots of the three-week-old Oman rebellion were reported fired today at a desert village.

An official announcement said the fusillade from troops of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman, advancing with the support of British ground and air units, brought the quick surrender of Rada.

The Sultan's forces continued their advance on Firq, the rebel outpost three miles from the major rebel stronghold of Nizwa. Located in the central Oman desert, it is the headquarters of the rebels.

The Omani rebel Imam Ghaleb Ban Ali, in an interview published in Cairo today by the Arab Middle East News Agency, said fighting between his followers and British-aided troops will continue until the "aggressors" recognize Oman's independence.

Asked by the agency if the stiuation now prevailing in Oman was the result of American - British competition for oil concessions, the Imam replied: "The aggression now taking place against us has no purpose but Britain's determination to use force to prevent us from gaining our lost rights which we decided to win back."

The Imam said the rebels need all kind of aid and Arab support.

75-Year-Old Man Beaten, 'Critical'

A man identified as Seymour Hill, 75, Darbyville, was beaten and robbed in his home last night, the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department reported today.

According to Deputy Dwight Radcliff, Hill was struck in the head with a whiskey bottle and then robbed by an unknown assailant. The elderly man, apparently lying unconscious in his house during the night, was found this morning by neighbors.

Deputy Radcliff said Hill was rushed to Berger Hospital at 10 a. m. today. The man appeared to be in critical condition, the deputy reported.

Mrs. Wilson Happy Charles To Quit Job

PETOSKEY, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Jessie Ann Wilson, who married her husband when he was an $80 a month electrical engineer and accompanied him on his long climb to millionairedom, says she is happy Charles E. Wilson is retiring as defense secretary.

"The news looks good," Mrs. Wilson said at the family's summer cottage at Wallon Lake near here. "After all, Mr. Wilson is 67. He has earned a rest."

President Eisenhower has nominated Procter & Gamble Soap Co. President Neil H. McElroy to replace Wilson in the cabinet.

As to the possibility of a long Senate investigation of McElroy, Mrs. Wilson said "how futile it all seems. Mr. McElroy is a splendid person, fine and upright, and willing to serve the nation in a vital job. Perhaps his company does sell some soap to the government, but I understand it's a trivial contract.

"Mr. Wilson, of course, was a complete novelty in Washington. He spoke simple truths in a place where politics is more generally the native tongue. He came as a great shock."

Mrs. Wilson emerged from the background only once and then to defend her husband.

When President Eisenhower criticized Wilson for making his famous draft-dodging remark in connection with the National Guard, Mrs. Wilson leaped to her husband's defense and sassed the President.

Woman, 88, Missing on Pikes Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) Hopes waned today for Mrs. Inestine B. Roberts, who is 88 and loves to climb mountains. She has been missing since Monday on Pikes Peak.

"I'm worried; I warned her not to try to climb it," said Mrs. Marjorie R. Feldkirchner, a daughter.

"We won't leave until we find her," said Sheriff Earl Sullivan, who led a hundred or so searchers in combing a 20-square-mile area Wednesday.

Mountain troops from Ft. Carson joined in. Two Civil Air Patrol planes circled overhead. The ground parties camped across the rugged northeast face of the mountain Wednesday night after their second day of hunting was fruitless.

Mrs. Roberts left her home in Colorado Springs Saturday on her 15th climb alone up the 14,100-foot peak. She reached the summit Sunday evening and started down Monday morning. The last ones to see her Monday afternoon, said she carried a small bag of food.

The area where she disappeared is filled with crevices and wooded ravines. Brown bears, Bighorn sheep and other wild animals roam the rugged terrain. Nighttime temperatures fall almost to freezing. There are deep snow drifts near the summit. Mrs. Roberts wore only light clothing.

Senate Panel Told of 'Myth'

U. S. Steel's Board Chairman Gives Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roger M. Blough, board chairman of United States Steel Corp., told senators today it was "sheer economic superstition" to contend the recent steel price rise will touch off a new round of inflation.

Blough, first witness in a new congressional inquiry into the steel industry and its pricing policies, said that "viewed in its true perspective, the price of steel is amazingly low."

"Steel is not only the cheapest, by far, of all the common metals," he said, "but with surprisingly few exceptions, it is also cheaper, pound for pound, than almost anything else you can buy.

"To put it in the politest possible terms, therefore, let me just say that the so-called 'high price of steel' is, in my opinion, another myth, pure and simple."

Blough appeared before the Senate Antitrust subcommittee.

The steel hearings at this time were prompted by the $6-a - ton price rise for the metal, which became effective July 1.

* * *

THIS WAS announced first by U. S. Steel, the industry's biggest producer. Other steel producers followed suit.

Blough quoted several economic authorities in support of his arguments that the steel price boost need not be inflationary.

He said that Dr. Ewan Clague, U. S. commissioner of labor statistics, said last August that a rise in steel prices has only a "negligible" effect on the cost of living.

Blough said he wanted to dispel what he called a "delusion" that U. S. Steel dominates a monopolistic industry or that it reaps "fabulous profits, the public interest to the contrary notwithstanding."

U. S. Steel produced 66 per cent of the nation's steel when it was founded in 1902, he said, but now its share is down to 30 per cent.

As to profits, he said his corporation ranks third in the nation in assets and invested capital and fourth in sales. But he said it stands 123rd on the basis of profits as a percentage of sales, and 243rd in profits as a return on invested capital.

Blough said U. S. Steel had been blamed for surrendering to union demands for wage increases "because we can easily pass them along to our customers."

But he said the corporation has had five "costly strikes" in the last five years and that, each time, a nationwide demand arose from steel users and the government for quick settlement.

* * *

THESE WAGE settlements have meant increased prices, Blough said, but the company has had to absorb a part of higher payroll costs. For instance, he contended, the recent price increase amounted to an average of 4 per cent but a wage raise effective the same day amounted to "about a 6 per cent increase in our total costs per man hour."

Blough said the present 7¾ cents a pound price for steel, an increase of 4¾ cents since 1940, is "something of a modern industrial miracle."

Most of this increase is accounted for by inflation and steel has improved greatly in quality in the period, he said.

During the same 17 years, Blough said, bread has gone up 11 cents a pound, butter 39 cents and round steak 59 cents.

House Reverses Air Chapel Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House reversed itself Wednesday and agreed to allow funds to begin a new chapel at the Air Force Academy. Then it passed a $1½ billion appropriations bill, mostly to finance military construction.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

The dispute over the chapel revolved around its proposed design. One House member called it a "monstrosity." On Tuesday, the House tentatively approved, 102-53, an amendment to bar use of any money in the bill on the chapel at Colorado Springs, Colo. But Wednesday the amendment was knocked out, 147-83.

Resisting Arrest Brings Stiff Fine

Being under the influence of intoxicants and disorderly, plus resisting arrest, resulted in a stiff fine and jail sentence for Fred Brungs, 44, 216 Huston St., in Circleville Municipal Court today.

Arrested by city police, Brungs was fined $50 and costs for intoxication and disorderly conduct and $50 and costs for resisting. He was booked by Patrolman Russell Ogan.

Brung's antics prompted Acting Judge Emmitt Crist to reimpose a suspended penalty against him. He was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a former conviction of being drunk and disorderly. The penalty had been suspended under provisions that Brungs maintain good behavior, which he apparently failed to do.

In other court action, Joe Hickey, Circleville, was placed under a $1,000 peace bond which states that he is not to molest Marguerite Congrove or her family.

Chief Warns Bike Riders

Numerous complaints prompted Police Chief Elmer Merriman today to issue a warning against riding bicycles on city sidewalks.

Chief Merriman said the city does have an ordinance against this violation but it has not been strictly enforced in the past. In view of the complaints, the chief has ordered his men to keep cyclists off sidewalks.

Although the ordinance forbids riding of bicycles all over the city, Merriman said the situation has been bad particularly in the downtown area.

For safety's sake, the chief warned riders to keep bicycles off sidewalks in all sections of the city.

$1,250 Damage Caused by Fire

Fire at the Inez Larrie residence, Route 2, Williamsport, caused damage estimated at $1,250 yesterday at about 8:30 p. m.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Hoover said the blaze was confined to the attic and three rooms of the frame house. Damage to the home was estimated at $750 and household articles destroyed were valued at $500.

According to Deputy Hoover, the fire was discovered when one of the Larrie children smelled smoke coming from the attic. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

Pickaway Offense Puts Man's Driver's License in Jeopardy

The first Columbus motorist to accumulate 12 points under Ohio's new point system for suspension of drivers licenses committed his first offense in Pickaway County.

The motorist, Harold Harrison, was arrested here July 14 by the Pickaway County Sheriff's department on an accusation of driving under the influence of intoxicants. He was convicted in Circleville Municipal Court the following day.

Convicted in Columbus Municipal Court last Friday, Harrison's name was certified to the Franklin County Common Pleas Court for hearing on a request that his driver's license be suspended.

Conviction for driving under the influence calls for six points for each offense.

The new law, designed to remove habitual traffic violators from Ohio highways, requires the state registrar to ask the offender's home county to hold a hearing whether his driver's license should be suspended up to a year when he accumulates 12 points.

Air Force Reaches Age 50

Considering the profound influence it was to play in human affairs in the 20th century, the coming of the airplane made remarkably little initial impact.

No one seemed to be paying any attention when the Wright brothers first flew at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903.

And military planners were so slow to see any significance in the event that it wasn't until four years later that anyone in the War Department bestirred himself to do anything about this new-fangled contraption.

On August 1, 1907, Brig. Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the Army, wrote a brief office memorandum:

"An Aeronautical Division of this office is hereby established to take effect this date. The division will have charge of all matters pertaining to military ballooning, air machines, and all kindred subjects."

That simple action within the Army Signal Corps was the humble beginning of the mightiest Air Force the world has ever known. General Allen's new division had one officer, two enlisted men and some wobbly balloons. Later it purchased a flimsy biplane built by the Wright brothers for $30,000 and which went all of 42 miles an hour.

Today the U. S. Air Force covers the world, operating from 400 bases with more than 930,000 officers and men and with 400,000 civilians on its payroll. It has 21,000 aircraft plus deadly guided missiles.

Now, more than ever in its 50 years of growth to greatness, does the Air Force literally carry the peace of the world on its wings.

Aid Programs Eat Dollars

It is discovered by Tax Foundation Inc. that the federal government had 18 aid programs in operation in 1934 when the nation was in the grip of a deep depression.

With approximately full employment and broad national prosperity under way, the federal government now has 97 such aid programs. Expenditures for the programs have grown from $222 million 23 years ago to $3 billion today.

There are no increases in the fields of aid, which include veterans, labor and welfare, agriculture, natural resources, commerce and housing. But the bureaus within these fields have multiplied.

There is an interesting report on one phase of aid, which is the giving away of surplus food. During the fiscal year ended June 30 a record was set when 2.8 billion pounds of surpluses were given away.

Foreign distribution rose 45 per cent to 1.8 billion pounds and domestic distribution increased 32 per cent to more than 1 billion pounds. The domestic program included school lunches which leaped 61 per cent in consumption.

Citizens who wonder where their taxes go have one example here. And there are 97 such examples of aid programs in the federal government alone.

Missing Teeth Truly Missed

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—In this civilization a middle-aged man can have many adventures.

He can float on a raft to the flowery isles of the south Pacific.

He can discover a misprint in the Long Island railroad's timetable.

He can perhaps even find a new true love.

But, if he's 46 and got a partial plate, I'll tell you one thing he can't do. He can't chew gum and feel any younger.

Ever since I had my four upper front teeth pulled some weeks ago, envious strangers have stopped me in the street to find out what the result was.

Frankly, I feel it's the kind of thing that ought to happen to a stranger — but, please, not me again.

For the dentist replaces your lost ivories with plastic copies that bear about the same relation to your original teeth as Benedict Arnold does to George Washington.

Your friends who have lost all of their teeth may counsel, "There's nothing to it. Don't worry. You'll never know the difference."

They may brag they can eat anything they want. The fact of the menu is that seven out of eight times they will order chicken a la king. They always unconsciously are saving their molers to bite a better meal. It must be that. They certainly aren't using them.

A man who has 32 false teeth (in inflation times you even buy false wisdom teeth) may say he can't tell the difference between his fine new bought chompers and the ones he pulled out. All I can say is that he is gifted with a remarkable lapse of memory.

Myself, I am only missing my four front upper teeth, like I said, but I'll tell you it's like a boy losing four mothers right in a row, and all of 'em his.

A man with a partial plate feels like he has a mouth full of marbles but, unlike Demosthenes, this sensation doesn't encourage him to further oratory. The small new whistle in his speech, which yesterday he thought would be gone by tomorrow, is still there next week. He begins to hate the letter "S".

The worse blow to the self-respect of a man with a partial plate comes when he tries to chew gum for the first time—which is usually the last time.

I just finished making this effort. I started with one piece and went on, piece after piece, until I had the whole package in my mouth.

Each piece clung to the denture deeper so that finally I could no longer either whisper or lisp. I was silenced behind a silent elastic curtain. A glum gum curtain.

Let others falsely praise the virtues of false teeth. I'll tell you the truth: A man who cannot chew gum is not free. He is a prisoner of time, and he is a prisoner forever.

Speaking with Freedom on TV

By George Sokolsky

I saw a piece in "TV Guide" on the subject of speaking in freedom on the air. According to this article there is no freedom of speech on TV which, according to my notions, means that there is no freedom of thought.

I have worked for many years for the American Broadcasting Company. On these broadcasts, I exress myself with the greatest possible freedom. Nobody has ever censored me. Only once was I questioned concerning a matter of liel on which there was a difference of opinion due largely to the other man's lack of knowledge as to the facts Never have I been requested to change a word or a sentence.

I understand that the same doctrine of freedom does not hold true on any TV network. It seems to me a stupid policy to restrict the human mind and to turn a reporter into a mere baritone. According to the article in "TV Guide," the Columbia network (CBS) is about to broadcast an editorial opinion. Is it to be the opinion of Columbia or the speaker?

If it is to be the opinion of Columbia, it will be no good because the human mind does not think collectively; all thought is writers of newspapers, men like writers of newspapers, men like Horace Greeley, Arthur Brisbane, Charles Dana were not products of editorial conferences. They wrote as it came to them.

On the American Broadcasting Company (radio) opinion broadcasting is handled on what is called the spectrum theory, namely, they have a wide range of personalities, from left to right, from radical to conservative, who do not debate each other, as debating is childish, but each has his say. For instance, on Sunday nights, I am preceded by Quincy Howe, a scholarly, knowledgeable internationalist. I am a nationalist who regards internationalism as the cause of many of our most serious present troubles.

The same listeners have the opportunity to listen to Quincy Howe as have the opportunity to listen to me. Often we discuss the very same subject. It used to be that I was followed or preceded by Paul Harvey who has a position different from either Quincy Howe or myself. The listener gets not a snatch of a debate but a carefully prepared, rather full discussion of the subject by persons who take their chores very seriously.

Nor is it editorializing disguised by slanting, by omissions, by dishonest emphasis. We say what we have to say and do not depend upon a secondary person in a news-room either to prepare our copy or to censor it.

"TV Guide" quotes:

"William R. McAndrew, head of NBC's news department, contend no NBC commentator has 'ever been discouarged from expressing personal opinions that are based upon professional examination of evidence.'"

Precisely what is "professional examination of evidence"? Does that mean that a newspaperman who has devoted 30 or 40 years to the study of international problems, who may be an expert concerning one country or an area, who may know languages and history and tradition, must have his judgments examined by some junior in the State Department or the CIA who is professionally in the foreign affairs business? This concept is ridiculous and represents fear either of sponsors or of some sections of the public.

That kind of cowardice has reduced TV to a purveyor of long forgotten movies and silly escape theatricals, some of which look as though they were done as high school plays.

The assumption that any intelligent person can analyze news without expressing an opinion, without expressing a particular point of view or even bias, is without psychological or factual foundation and its statement by company officials is surely untruthful. At any rate, CBS need

Blinks Warn of Eye Strain

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Like many of our modern automobiles, your eyes have a built-in windshield washer and wiper. It's called blinking.

Blinking and winking are entirely different things. A blink is an involuntary reflex while a wink is a highly voluntary action.

A wink—at the wrong time and to the wrong person—might bring prompt and severe damage to the eyes. The medical term for the universal malady, usually caused by a clenched fist, is "blackeye."

A blink, on the other hand, serves a useful purpose.

Blinking wipes the eyeballs clean and lubricates them at the same time. The action also serves as a relief mechanism which momentarily lessens eyestrain.

That's why the rate of blinking increases when you try to read small type, try to see through a glare or wear the wrong glasses.

Each blink requires only a fraction of a second. In fact, blinking is one of the body's fastest actions. During this time the eyeballs roll inward, then upward and finally return to their normal position.

Everyone doesn't blink at the same rate. The frequency varies, of course, with different tasks as well as with different persons.

But generally when your rate of blinking increases a great deal, it means you are straining your eyes.

Usually you can tell when you are blinking more than you ordinarily do. Someone in your family is also likely to notice it.

This is a signal to rest your eyes for a while. If the rate of blinking doesn't subside, you'd better see your eye doctor.

We humans are pretty lucky to be able to get the relief afforded by blinking.

Snakes and chameleons, for example, can't blink at all. Neither has movable eyelids.

A chameleon's eyelids are permanently fused with only a small central opening, while a snake has a transparent membrane covering the eyes.

Question and Answer

J. H.: My sister had a cut on her face. It healed with a very large, red scar. Will the scar recur if she has it cut out?

Answer: Certain persons have a tendency to form large scars or keloids following an injury. Usually they do have a tendency to recur.

X-ray treatment during the healing stage may help.

Dear Sir,

I would like to take this opportunity to answer the many criticisms of the Circleville Independent Softball League.

Few people realize the obstacles that we have had to contend with. A late start in forming the league, an unusually wet June, and lack of planning and cooperation from park and city officials has made a tough job tougher.

I realize by not being a resident of Circleville, I may be more critical than I should, but I am of the opinion that with an early start next season and more cooperation from certain officials, Circleville can have one of the finest softball leagues in this part of the state.

In closing I want to thank Melvin Bass, who gave so unselfishly of his time and services. Although not an official of the league, he has done his utmost to make the league a success.

HARVEY BREIT tells about a long-haired scholar who insisted that Shakespeare's plays had been written by Queen Elizabeth I. The eminent Scots minister, Dr. Hugh Black, challenged him. "Surely," he scoffed, "you don't believe a woman could have composed such masterpieces."

"You miss my point entirely," said the scholar. "It is my contention that Queen Elizabeth was a man."

At a midtown publisher's office, a newly arrived English author expressed some disappointment with his first dinner at a Broadway delicatessen immortalized by Damon Runyon. "It's hard to believe," he reported, "but there wasn't a decent vintage wine in the place."

A play called "I Am a Camera" was a solid hit on Broadway a few seasons ago, but one critic persisted in sneering at it. He summed up his feelings, in fact, in just two words: "No Leica."

Congressman's 'Model' Wife Turns Capitol Hill Heads

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ross Bass (D-Tenn) is used to having folks take a second look at his glamorous wife, Avanell.

She was "Miss Greenville" (N. C.) when he met her in 1945 while she was visiting friends in Alexandria, La., where he was stationed in the Air Force. She was a much-photographed Powers model in New York too, just before their marriage in 1946.

The tall, fashionable brunette has caused much head-turning at social gatherings in the capital since Bass was elected to Congress in 1954.

"She's a former model," folks whisper to the unitiated. "She's a very bright girl, too," they add, as if surprised.

Avanell says she's always taken aback when photographers ask her to pose "like a model." She's been so busy being a congressional wife, she says, she never gives her earlier profession a thought.

"I never was the much ballyhooed cover girl type," she confides. "I posed mostly for ads for perfumes, cosmetics, vacuum cleaners and mattresses. I'm a much better office worker than a model anyway."

Proving the extent of her ability, she has been working full time on her husband's staff since coming to Washington, and she loves it.

"I read all the papers from our district, four dailies and 24 weeklies," she explained. "I keep all his appointments and answer the phone. I like to take visiting constituents to the Capitol. I guess I'm what you'd call his general flunkey."

When her husband resigned as Pulaski, Tenn., postmaster after six years, she helped him campaign for Congress. He dictated and re-read all his speeches to her. Sometimes she filled in for him when he had conflicting engagements.

"We lived out of a suitcase," she said. "It was fun and very interesting. I think all wives should be active. The constituents like to get to know their congressman's wife. They always seem especially pleased to find the wife in his office when they visit Capitol Hill.

Avanell says she's "not much of a party girl," and wouldn't have time for the hectic round of socializing in Washington if she were. Most of her time is spent in her husband's office. She has to get going early with her "homework."

"We're out of the house by 7 most mornings," she explained, "before that I have to cook breakfast, do the dishes and make the beds. Most days we're in the office until 8 p. m."

Chamber Urges U.S. Shun A-Electricity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Chamber of Commerce says progress by private business in producing electricity from atomic energy makes it unnecessary for the government to enter that field.

The chamber said it has written letters to every member of the House urging Congress to eliminate from the Atomic Energy Commission authorization of a bill for $58 million for atomic reactors.

The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee approved the bill July 30. Several days afterward, four Republicans on the committee issued a statement saying the committee's Democratic majority showed a "strong bias" in favor of public power.

Wheat Farmers To Shun 'Bank'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal farm officials expect a sizeable falloff in wheat farmer participation in the 1958 version of the acreage reserve phase of the Soil Bank Program.

They say several things may discourage signups under the program. No longer can land diverted from wheat be offset by corresponding increases in acreages of other crops. This limitation, announced last Friday, will tend to hold income of a farm below what it otherwise might be.

The department made a slight increase in the acreage rates for retiring wheat land, but many farmers may figure it is not enough to offset the loss of income production possibilities under the new acreage limitation.

The World Today

By James Marlow

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—So far Negroes are the winners, Southerners the losers in the civil rights fight. The battle isn't over. It's reaching its critical stage. This is an ABC on the fight and what lies ahead.

The bill passed by the House June 18 was a victory for Negroes, a defeat for the South. The Senate Wednesday night passed a toned-down version of the House bill. This too, was a Negro victory. Southerners could claim satisfaction from toning it down.

But there will be no civil rights law at all—which would be complete defeat for Negroes, complete victory for the South—unless the House and Senate compromise on a single bill which President Eisenhower is willing to sign.

The House is unlikely to accept the Senate bill completely. If it does, Eisenhower will probably veto the bill because of a jury trial requirement he says would be "most damaging to the entire federal judiciary."

No one expects the House to insist on its own bill completely. If it did, there would be no civil rights law this year. The Senate is certain to reject anything like that. The question is: How much compromise by both houses?

Both houses agree on this much in their two bills:

Creation of a two-year commission, with power to subpoena witnesses, to study civil rights problems; and creation of a new civil rights division in the Justice Department with a new assistant attorney general to run it.

Negroes consider this a gain since the commission would have broad powers to examine discrimination and civil rights violations and report on them.

This is where House and Senate bills differ:

1. The House would let the attorney general, in addition to voting rights cases, move into all kinds of civil rights violations. For example: School segregation. The Senate threw this out altogether.

If the House insisted on retaining this provision—it's unlikely to — the Senate almost certainly would refuse. The result: No agreed-on bill and therefore no new law.

2. The House and Senate would both let the attorney general step in when voting rights were violated and ~~ask a federal judge~~ to order the violations stopped. This is more protection than Negroes have obtained from Congress in this century. But—

Under the House bill anyone disobeying such a court order could be tried by a judge, without a jury, and jailed for civil contempt or criminal contempt. For civil contempt he'd be jailed only until he complied. Under criminal contempt he'd get a flat jail sentence as punishment after it was too late to comply.

The Senate agreed to the first part of that: It would let a judge by himself try and jail a man for civil contempt. But for criminal contempt the Senate insisted a man must be given a jury trial.

But the Senate went far beyond voting rights cases. It said anyone charged with criminal contempt in any kind of case in federal courts must be tried by a jury. This is the part Eisenhower particularly objects to.

It would reduce the power federal judges have now to back up their orders by personally trying anyone charged with criminal contempt for disobeying their orders. But the Senate bill goes even further.

It would affect every government regulatory agency—like the National Labor Relations Board, the Federal Communications Commission and many others—which depend on court orders to back up its rulings.

The real question of compromise between House and Senate seems to be right there: Will the Senate agree to drop the provision on jury trials for all criminal contempt cases?

Or would it insist on retaining jury trials at least for criminal contempt cases in voting rights cases? Also would the House accept jury trials in voting rights cases?

And one more question: If House and Senate agreed there should be jury trials for criminal contempt only in trying rights cases, would Eisenhower sign the bill? He had said he didn't want this provision in the bill.

But if either bill became law—no matter what happened to federal judges' power or the operations of government regulatory agencies—it would be a victory for Negroes.

The attorney general could still step in to help them and the judge would still have a lot of power under civil contempt charges to make individuals and communities think twice before interfering with Negroes' voting rights.

German Movie Star Amazed By Goings-on in Las Vegas

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood may not seem so glamorous in the eyes of German star Curt Jergens, but Las Vegas—that's another matter.

"Fantastic— utterly fantastic!" exclaimed the handsome star over the Nevada gambling capital. "I could never imagine such a place. To think that Americans would construct such palaces in the middle of the desert, just so people could gamble!

"Without air conditioning, the whole thing would be impossible. You step outdoors and the heat knocks you right back into the casinos—which is what the owners want, I guess.

"The shows are wonderful. Such production, such girls! But the real show is the people.

"I have a home 13 kilometers from Monte Carlo, and when I go to the casino to play, I dress up in a black suit. In Las Vegas, a man was gambling right next to me who was naked—nothing on but trunks! And I saw a woman in a bikini walk in from the swimming pool and sit right down to play craps."

He confessed he would also like to play craps but doesn't know how. He contented himself to roulette and dropped quite a bundle—"It's strange how much interest they pay to someone who plays for quite a bit—free champagne and everything." He said he now knows why they call it lost wages.

Despite this, he plans to return as soon as he finishes his first Hollywood film, "The Enemy Below." He is the second big star of German films to come here.

The first was O.W. Fischer, who was dropped from "My Man Godfrey" because of "impossible temperament." Jergens is the reverse, according to everyone from producer-director Dick Powell on down.

An Austrian citizen of French-German parents, Jergens is 42, tall, masculine and speaks English with scarcely an accent. He resembles George Sanders, but without the latter's icy qualities.

Veteran of 20 years on the European stage, Jergens clicked in European pictures after the war. Powell saw his work and sent for him to play the anti-Nazi submarine commander in "The Enemy Below."

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: What is your definition of love? When two people say they are in love, how can they know it is true love?

I am very much in love with a young man—I've known him for over two years—who is wonderful in every way; but I wonder if he is really in love with me. He tells me that he is; and he is attentive in every way. Yet there are times when his attitude towards me is such that I wonder.

Can it be perhaps that I do not always understand him? How can I be sure?

L. G.

DEAR L.G.: My definition of love: In essence, it is wholeheartedly wanting all good—the abundant life, joyous and blessed—for the beloved. And also, paradoxically, wanting to share life with him or her, to dwell in the presence, as it were—without thought of any advantage or ease to be attained by self, in that togetherness. Rather a selfless kind of sharing.

However, there are other definitions of love. One, for example, by a modern philosopher who says "Love is the desire to give fullness of life." Well, that's not too different from my definition. The late Dr. Harry Stack Sullivan, internationally known psychoanalyst defined love as "That state in which the satisfaction and security of another person has become as important to you as the satisfaction of your own needs of well being."

You ask, when two people say they are in love, I assume you mean a state of devotion that will last for a lifetime, loyally—wanting no replacement.

I should think the plain fact is, they can't know about the quality of the love they are pledging, except as they know, dependably, about their own character—which is the sum of their customary habitual action.

Love isn't a mood or an emotion—although joyous moods and inspiring emotions are an integral part of love, also a byproduct of same. Love is of deeper essence than feeling, that may flicker as unstably as a candle flame in a breeze. Taken as a whole, real love is an act of the will, a rationally established purpose, a pattern of conduct in respect to the beloved, that simply keeps the relationship on course, regardless of storm, stress, temptation, etc.

As for your young man, whose attitude kindles doubt in you at times, even though he says he loves you and is attentive in every way, maybe his feelings conflict now and then with his disposition to love you truly.

Maybe he is allergic to certain traits of yours, even though he thinks you're "the most" as compared to all others. Possibly he is conditioned to a pattern of courtesy that allows him no leeway for contradicting, reproving or lecturing a beloved person.

Evidently you don't understand him yet—and nobody can give you guarantee that his love is, or will be, "true." Life will have to prove that.

State Pressing Its Program For Children's Mental Clinics

COLUMBUS (AP)—Adults do not have a monopoly on mental illness, and because of that Ohio in the next few years will spend millions of dollars on institutions for children with mental problems.

"One of the gravest problems facing the state today is the tremendous and tragic increase in the number of delinquent and mental ill children," says Dr. C. Earl Albrecht, acting director of the state department of mental hygiene and correction.

During the next three years, the state will build three hospitals which he says will put Ohio in the forefront in services to juveniles. The hospitals, and other construction for children, will make up a nearly $10 million program.

The psychiatric treatment hospitals include a $1.7 million one at Sagamore Hills between Cleveland and Akron and a $1.6 million hospital at Dayton, both under the division of mental hygiene.

The third will be a $1½ million hospital at Columbus under the division of juvenile research, which administers Ohio's program for problem juveniles.

* * *

"THESE THREE hospitals alone will put Ohio in the forefront in services to juveniles," says Dr. Albrecht. "But they are only a part of the overall plan which aims to help meet the grave problem."

Work will begin this fall on the Columbus and Dayton institutions and next spring on the Sagamore Hills Hospital.

During the next few years, Dr. Albrecht said, the Juvenile Diagnostic Center in Columbus will be doubled in size at a cost of about $2 million, and the first part of a new training institution for boys will be built in central Ohio at a cost of about $1.7 million.

In addition, the state will spend $250,000 for building youth camps for problem juveniles. The last Legislature appropriated $1.6 million for repairing existing juvenile institutions.

Dr. Albrecht wants still more institutions for juveniles and the department plans to submit to the Legislature in 1959 proposals for:

A central Ohio training school for girls to cost $1.1 million; completion of the training institution for boys to cost $1.7 million; a children's psychiatric hospital in southwest Ohio to cost $1.7 million; adolescent units at Dayton hospital and children's psychiatric units at Longview State Hospital, Cincinnati, each to cost $480,000.

Tina Marie will be buried Friday, but attaches at Bethesda Hospital said Mrs. Kaeser would not be able to attend the funeral.

Intricate Heart Operation Helps Mt. Sterling Boy, 2

Almost two years old, Lawrence Vulgamore, Jr., at last is strong enough to walk.

Lawrence, 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Vulgamore Route 3, Mount Sterling, was released from The Children's Hospital, Columbus, Thursday after repair work on his heart which gave him normal blood circulation for the first time in his life.

A team of Children's Hospital surgeons performed the open heart surgery July 19 in an operation that lasted three hours and 54 minutes. During that time a heart pump maintained his circulation for 29 minutes and his heart was stopped for 14 of the 29.

When Lawrence's mother was contacted today she reported that Lawrence's condition since his arrival home was excellent-even better then they had hoped for. He now walks and plays with his older sister, Linda and his older brother, Johnny, and with the baby, Donald.

Mrs. Vulgamore said that they learned about Lawrence's heart condition when he was nine months old. They also knew that in all probability an operation could be performed that would bring him back to health.

This knowledge made the intervening months endurable for the Vulgamores.

Lawrence's trouble was a hole in an inner wall in the upper part of his heart, complicated by a defective mitral valve. This is a check valve which regulates flow between the left auricle and left ventricle, and its failure to function properly was cancelling out much of the hard work the child's heart was doing.

Instead of a normal blood supply going into Lawrence's circulatory system, much of it was by-passing the system and merely making a short trip in the heart itself. Consequently, Lawrence was existing with full use of only one half to one third of his blood supply.

When he was brought to The Children's Hospital, he weighed only 18 pounds and was unable to walk. He could stand by holding to furniture, but lacked the strength to take steps.

Now doctors consider him on the way to becoming a normal boy after a few more weeks convalescense at home.

A schedule of two open heart operations a week is maintained at The Children's Hospital, using techniques developed in the last two years and refined further through practice here.

Weeky Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Food costs are still inching up, but there are bargains to be had if you look for them.

Best buys in meat this weekend will include smoked picnic hams, ribs, bacon and most cuts of veal.

Likewise attractively priced are roasting turkeys and frying chickens.

Beef prices continued to move up. Rib roast of beef is higher this week in New York, Pittsburgh, Washington and Philadelphia; sirloin steak is up a few cents a pound in leading supermarkets in New York and Chicago.

While veal is a bit higher in some areas, it's still one of the better buys.

Egg prices have turned around and are again heading lower. Some of the big food chains have slashed prices of large white eggs as much as five cents a dozen and medium-sized whites as much as six cents.

Budget - minded shoppers will also find a wide variety of frozen fish to choose from. Some of the more prominently mentioned "specials" are frozen fish sticks and frozen salmon steaks.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are available in great abundance this week.

Outstanding buys include cabbage, yellow or green squash, bunched beets, yellow onions, tomatoes, radishes and scallion.

Listed as fairly good buys are yellow sweet corn, California long white and Idago early gem potatoes, chinese cabbage and California pascal celery.

Cantaloupes are a little higher in price this week but still a good buy. Also attractively priced are South Carolina and Maryland peaches, Florida citrus fruits, California oranges, Montana cherries and Washington prunes. Blueberries are nearing the end of their season; grapes, plums, nectarines and pears are pretty much in the luxury class.

Dairy products are in great abundance right now—production of butter and cheese is way up but people are eating less.

It's going to be a good year for apples, with a larger then usual crop.

German Socialist Tells NATO Views

BONN (AP) — Socialist Chairman Erich Ollenhauer says a Socialist government would pull Germany out of NATO if Russia and the Big Three agreed on a freely established, reunified Germany as a member of a European security system.

Ollenhauer, chief opponent of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's forces in the Sept. 15 elections, said the key Socialist plank is a call for new initiative in bringing about reunification.

But, he said, his party would not initiate reunification talks with Russia. Instead it would work first for agreement with the United States, Britain and France, then present its plan to Moscow.

Engineer Resigns To Run for Mayor

COLUMBUS (AP)—Fred T. Long, a provisional state highway department engineer employed at Newark, has resigned to carry on his campaign as a Republican candidate for mayor in that city.

The Ohio Civil Service Commission said he resigned effective Wednesday.

Gov. C. William O'Neill's office received a telegram Tuesday from Gordon H. Gainer, president of the Young Democratic Club of Licking County, and county campaign chairman. Gainer demanded Long's removal, but Long's resignation came before the governor had a chance to act on the demand.

Gainer contended Long was violating civil service regulations in carrying on a political campaign while still a state employe.

Driving Aide Arrested

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP)—Sandra Frederick, 19, an office employe of the Easy Method Driving School, was fined $20 for driving without a license.

Bugs Destroyed, But So Is House

CHARLESTON (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Null, said the exterminator destroyed the termites as requested. The only trouble was the house was destroyed, too.

The Nulls filed a $25,000 suit in Circuit Court against the West Virginia Terminix Co. and an employe, Frank Leach.

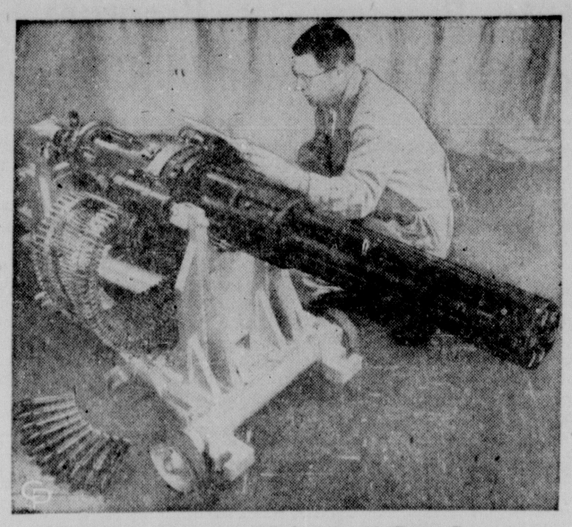

Leach went to the Null residence at nearby Tyler Mountain April 2 to spray for termites. The couple said he sprayed a chemical beneath the house while a pilot light was burning in a floor furnace.

The chemical spray ignited and the house was destroyed in the resulting fire, the Nulls said in their suit.

9th Marine Regiment Slated To Leave Japan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon says the 9th Marine Regiment will be transferred soon from Japan to Okinawa.

Formal announcement of the departure of the last ground combat force from Japan was delayed until this week to avoid any possible effect on the Okinawa elections held several days ago.

The Department of Defense said an advance party of the reinforced regiment, which has a strength of about 7,000 men, will leave Japan for Okinawa in a few days to prepare for the transfer of the main body of troops.

Cement--Modern World Monument Maker

This concrete siphon, 25 feet in diameter with walls two feet thick, carries 2½ million gallons of water per minute for irrigation of arid land in the Columbia River project, Washington state.

By LEE HANCOCK
Written for Central Press

ONE OF THE GREATEST commodities in the United States today is a greyish powder commonly sold in 50-pound bags for about 10 cents a pound.

Modern Portland cement has a rather short but fabulous history. Back in 1824 an English mason named Joseph Aspdin mixed a compound composed of lime, silica, alumina and iron oxide. The result was a grayish substance which reminded him of the stone quarried from the isle of Portland off the British coast.

Joseph Aspdin's Portland cement proved to be the best answer to date to an age-old problem. Down through the centuries men had attempted to bind stone into a solid mass

Some of their efforts were remarkably successful. The Assyrians and Babylonians achieved some good results with clay. The Egyptians built the Pyramids by using lime and gypsum mortar as a binding agent.

The Romans, who mixed slaked lime with a volcanic ash from Mount Vesuvius, produced a cement capable of hardening under water. As proof of the quality of their cement, many Roman-built structures are standing today.

Impressive though these remnants of a lost civilization may be, in our age we are building, with concrete, monuments that will dwarf anything man has yet been able to produce.

WE WILL be fortunate indeed if our civilization endures as long as will the mighty Grand Coulee dam and Columbia Basin project, the Hoover dam, and the magnificent San Francisco - Oakland Bay bridge.

Less durable, but equally spectacular, is the proposed network of 41,000 miles of roads that will represent the biggest construction achievement of our generation.

The Grand Coulee dam, perhaps the most massive monument to American ingenuity, contains enough concrete, 24 million tons of it, to pave a 50-foot wide turnpike from San Francisco to New York, along with the other dams that have been built within the last half century, it brings to life millions of acares of formerly arid land.

The San Francisco - Oakland bridge is an engineer's dream come true, thanks to the sturdy qualities of concrete. It is built in an earthquake area, rests on a caisson held in place by 24 concrete anchors.

The cement industry uses some of the world's largest pieces of moving equipment — rotary kilns wide enough to drive a car through, longer than a football field, and weighing up to 700 tons.

It was the late, great Thomas A. Edison who introduced the first long kilns in the cement industry. Up to the time he put his inventive mind to work on the problem, the biggest ones were only 80 feet long.

While the principal ingredient of cement is usually rock, clay, or shale, it can be made out of a number of things. One West Coast producer has successfully used blast furnace slag. (The expansion of the steel industry in the West made the slag available at an economical price.)

In Florida, the main raw material is often coquina shells, and in Texas, oyster shells dredged from the Gulf of Mexico are used.

There are good reasons why cement is big business. Concrete, the finished product derived from cement, produces the most long-lasting roads yet developed, with an average life of 50 years.

IN ADDITION to being durable, modern concrete is the most flexible building material in the world, can be made heavy enough to hold up a bridge and light enough to float.

Concrete also acts as a barrier against radiation fall-out and stands up well under bombings with modern nuclear weapons.

While concrete enables us to produce monuments to our civilization which will stand for ages to come, it also has the happy faculty of providing the solution to other construction problems.

When Cecil B. DeMille undertook the production of the film "The Ten Commandments" he was confronted with the problem of presenting a realistic picture of the parting of the Red sea. He solved it with 20,000 cubic feet of concrete.

Death Splits Comedy Team Of Favorite Laurel-Hardy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Death has split up the long - time favored comedy team of Laurel and Hardy.

Oliver Hardy, the rotund half of the slapstick duo, died here Wednesday at 65. He has suffered a stroke last September and had been completely incapacitated since then.

Laurel and Hardy were the movies' top comedy team for years after the advent of sound. Their films are still tremendoubly popular on television.

Hardy had lived at his mother-in-law's home since his stroke. He had been sinking steadily in recent months and his once plump body was wasted to a shadow.

His wife, Lucille, was at his side at the end.

Stan Laurel, 67, lives with his wife at nearby Malibu.

The specialty of the two was slapstick comedy and they mastered it as few ever have.

Hardy was once described as an elephant on tippy-toe.

He was the personification of exasperation, his wee moustache quivering as he batted his lububrious little partner, Laurel, about.

He was a forlorn gallant, in a too-small derby, always eager to stumble over his mincing feet in going to the aid of a fair lady.

For 20 years, blimp-sized, moon faced Hardy and skinny, lantern-jawed Laurel clowned their way through more than 200 slapstick comedies.

Their pictures were as popular abroad as they were in the United States.

Hardy was born Jan. 18, 1892, in Atlanta, Ga.

Laurel and Hardy rode the wave of popularity for 20 years and their salaries hit $3,500 a week. Then the bottom dropped out after an argument with the studio over story material. The last of their pictures made in Hollywood was released in 1945.

In recent years, Hardy and his wife, the former Virginia Lucille Jones, who was a studio script girl when they were married in 1948, have lived modestly. He was divorced from his first wife, former actress Myrtle Reeves, in 1937.

Ohio Road Program Seen Farmer Aid

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's highway chief thinks the state's big highway building program is going to benefit farmers as much as city folk.

Charles M. Noble, whose job it is to keep the road building program rolling, says "the bulk of the billion dollar program for 1957-58 involves improvements to existing secondary highways."

Noble said the popular opinion in Ohio seems to be that most of the highway department budget is going into a vast freeway system linking large cities together. But he said that 80 per cent of Ohio's highways carry no more than an average of 80 cars per hour per mile. Many rural highways are the most expensive to build and maintain when the cost is measured in proportion to their use, he said.

Mary Pickford Cool On Release of Films

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mary Pickford is all for letting sleeping dogs—and old movies—lie.

America's sweetheart of the silent screen era observed:

"I don't think I'll ever let my old pictures be shown on television. We were watching them at Pickfair once and everyone began to laugh at our funny clothes."

WAYNE HOLFORD, 11, shows the license plate sketch he made in Los Angeles, which resulted in three burglars being caught. He saw two men cutting a screen in a neighbor's home, and saw a car idling at the curb, a girl at the wheel. He sketched the license plate, then called police. Later, two men and a girl were arrested. They admitted 12 burglaries. (International Soundphoto)

Rifle, Pistol, Trapshoot Tournaments Due in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—America's straight - shooters are about to launch the nation's noisiest sports events.

The loud competitions are the National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, first held in 1903, and the 58th Grand American Trapshoot at Vandalia.

Some 3,500 competitors are slated to face the mile-long firing line at Camp Perry for the Aug. 9-Sept. 10 rifle-pistol matches, in which all the armed services, National Guard units, civilians, women knd children will be represented.

Entry list for the big trapshoot, Aug. 16-24, is expected to top the 2,500 mark. More than a million rounds of ammunition will be fired at each scene.

The two events, except for the extraordinary markmanship involved in each, are as opposite as the poles. And much of the difference centers around the financial aspects.

The month - long Camp Perry contests feature low entry fees, free ammunition and low - cost housing. Money talks big at Vandalia.

In the rifle-pistol matches, where you can fire in 17 small-bore, 13 pistol and 7 high-power rifle events for a total entry fee of $68, the best you can win is a title and a trophy.

At Vandalia it costs a minimum of $120.50 to fire in 13 events, that being the entry fee alone. If you want to participate in the purses and do a bit of optional wagering on your own prowess, you can pour another $592.50—or a total of $713—into the nine-day affair. But you stand a chance to pick up a refund of anywhere up to $10,000 for a single event, especially in the big handicap contests.

The national matches furnish free .45-caliber pistol and 30-caliber rifle ammunition for practice and competition. But at Vandalia, to fire the 1,700-round program, you'll lay out around $150 for the minimum of 68 boxes of 12-gauge shells. That hikes the cost to around $863 for the week if you go all the way.

The trapshoot is unique, too, in that professionals fire for trophies only, while the amateurs get the cash prizes—just the opposite of other sports. A professional is anyone employed by an arms or ammunition company, and all others are amateurs.

Most of Camp Perry's shooters are housed on the spacious grounds. A competitor pays a total of $3, plus 50 cents for each change of sheets and pillow cases, for the long tour. Boarded and screened tents, fully equipped, are available in "squaw camp" for shooters' families at $2.50 per night. Swimming in Lake Erie, only a few steps away, is free.

Transportation for the armed service qualifying teams, and the national guard entrants, is furnished for the Perry marksmen—but at the trapshoot everyone is on his own. A few of the shooters at Vandalia live in tents or trailers on the grounds, but most of them are housed in motels or Dayton hotels—13 miles from the firing line.

Every state in the union will be represented in each shoot, and Vandalia also will offer marksmen from Canada, Cuba, the Canal Zone. Camp Perry will feature service men from every point on the globe where the nation's armed forces are deployed.

Conley Keeping Milwaukee at Top of Heap

Big Gene Helps Braves Pad Their Lead in National League Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gene Conley, who last spring figured "to have myself the best season of my major league career," then went winless for two months, has found the touch again. He's keeping the pennant-pressing Milwaukee Braves perking in the National League Pennant race.

The big right-hander helped the Braves pad their lead to 1½ games Wednesday night, winning for the seventh time in his last eight decisions with a seven-hitter that beat fourth-place Cincinnati 12-2. The Braves have won 10 of their last 12 in a battle with St. Louis for the top spot, and Conley, now 7-5, has claimed four of the victories — the top contribution from Milwaukee's pitching staff.

Milwaukee edged farther ahead as the seventh-place Chicago Cubs, socked second-place St. Louis for the second night in a row, this time 5-1.

Third-place Brooklyn fell four games behind, losing 8-5 as the New York Giants scored five in the ninth and handed Don Newcombe his fourth consecutive defeat. Newk, who led the majors with a 27-7 record last season, made a spitting gesture toward the booing fans at Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium as he walked off, still burning from Hank Sauer's pinch-hit three-run homer that triggered the uprising.

In the American League, Washington scored three in the ninth and beat New York 3-2. Chicago's second-place White Sox whipped Kansas City 7-0 on Jim Wilson's two-hitter. Boston defeated Baltimore 5-2 in 11 innings as Ted Williams hiked his batting average to .389 again. Detroit banged Cleveland 4-1.

Conley, a 26-year-old giant (he stands 6-8) who had a 14-9 rookie year in '54, was 11-7 in '55 then had shoulder troubles and an 8-9 record last season, was 0-4 before he beat Brooklyn in relief June 26. Since then, he's beaten New York three times, Cincinnati twice, and has added another over the Dodgers. Three were in relief.

The big guy, taking the mound shortly after his wife had given birth to their third child, breezed Wednesday night. The Braves backed him up with 15 hits off starter-loser Brooks Lawrence and four relievers. Wes Covington was 2-for-2, hammering his 11th and 12th home runs and adding a sacrifice fly for four runs batted in. He also scored four.

Rookie right-hander Dick Drott allowed only five singles, but needed Dick Littlefield's relief help to win his 10th for the Cubs. Littlefield came on in the eighth, with the bases loaded and one out—and got pinch-hitter Walker Cooper to hit into a double play. Walt Moryn, Bob Speake and Dale Long hit solo home runs for Chicago, with Speake cracking a 1-1 tie against loser Herm Wehmeier in the fourth inning.

Newcombe, shackled with 10 defeats for the first time since his sophomore season of 1950 when he was 19-11, hasn't had a complete game or victory since he won his ninth July 12 against Cincinnati in Jersey City, Brooklyn's home-away-from-home. After the game he said he was "too damn mad to remember" whether he actually spat at the fans.

Roy Campanella, with four singles in four at bats, drove in three Dodger runs. Marv Grissom won it.

The Nats, who didn't have a hit for six innings and only two singles after eight, got to Tom Sturdivant when Roy Sievers hit a pinch single to open the ninth and Eddie Yost followed with a home run. Two singles, a sacrifice and Art Schult's sacrifice fly scored the clincher. Hank Bauer homered in the first for the Yanks and Mickey Mantle hit his 30th home run in the ninth. Bud Byerly won it in relief.

Williams, 2-for-5, including a two-run first-inning double, singled with two out in the Red Sox's three-run 11th, then scored the deciding run as Connie Johnson sat on the ground squawking over Umpire Ed Hurley's call at first base. Hurley ruled Johnson had failed to touch the bag after taking a toss from first baseman Bobby Boyd, who had fielded Mickey Vernon's grounder. Frank Sullivan won his 10th with a six-hitter.

Wilson, a 35-year-old right-hander who tops the AL with five shutouts, gained his second over the A's, giving up only a leadoff double to Billy Hunter and a fourth-inning single to Irv Noren. The White Sox wrapped it up against starter Maury McDermott with a six-run third inning on four walks, a hit batter and only three hits.

Billy Hoeft, now 4-6 after last season's 20 victories, fanned 10, walked none and had the Indians shut out on one hit for six innings.

Redlegs Flop Again Before Braves Bats

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Cincinnati's Redlegs currently seem out to prove that they are the best friends Milwaukee's pennant-minded Braves ever had.

Making it two-in-a-row on the home lot, Fred Haney's hopefuls poured it on the Reds 12-2 Wednesday night, helped in the three-run third by two Cincinnati errors—and this from a team boasting the best defensive record in the National League.

The defeat dropped the fourth place Reds six games behind top-flying Milwaukee.

It was the tenth victory of the season for the Braves over their Ohio cousins, who have won only two.

Pitching is the commodity that Manager Birdie Tebbetts never has had too much of. For the 80th time in 106 games, he had to wigwag to his bullpen for help Wednesday night. Brooks Lawrence started, but thereafter, four other hapless flingers seemed able only to add fuel to the flame. In all, Lawrence, Hershel Freeman, Tom Acker and Johnny Klippstein, served up 15 hits of assorted sizes, plus five bases on balls, two hit batsmen and a wild pitch. Only Don Gross, called upon after Lawrence failed to retire a batter in the third, escaped the sting.

Wes Covington, Milwaukee left fielder, paced the Braves' attack with a pair of home runs. In all, Covington batted in four tallies, and scored four times — just a notch ahead of his teammate Red Schoendienst who had three hits and three RBIs.

Rademacher Preps For Patterson

SEATTLE (AP)—Former farmboy Pete Rademacher, deadly serious about his Aug. 22 outing with Floyd Patterson, settled down to an austere training schedule today after a first public workout that labeled his boxing ring long suit is strength rather than speed.

Some of Rademacher's friends from his Yakima Valley home area in Washington state were among the 190 persons who paid admissions to watch the former Olympic heavyweight champion.

Sparring partner Clarence Hinnant, faster than Rademacher, got in some stinging jabs but Pete crowded the other fighter into the ropes where he tossed some hard lefts and rights.

Yama Bahama, Bimini middleweight, won 23 straight boxing bouts in 1956. He was christened William Butler.

Big Winners Vie Tonight In Lush Pace

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ten pacers, who together have earned nearly $1,400,000, go to the post tonight in the $21,000 Grandview Pacing Derby with Gold Worthy a 5-2 favorite.

The 4-year-old Gold Worthy set the record for Grandview's half mile oval by pacing the mile in 1:59.2. In another of six races he won in the current meeting, he was clocked at 1:59.4. Curly Smart of Delaware will drive Gold Worthy, owned by Dr. A. B. Thompson of Pulaski, N. Y.

Adios Harry, 6-year-old who won both heats of the 1956 Grandview Pacing Derby, was a 3-1 pre-race selection, but the odds may go higher by tonight. In four races here this year Adios has been second twice, fourth and fifth. He will be driven by Luther Lyons, son of the owner, J. Howard Lyons. With a mile mark of 1:55 on Vernon Downs ¾-mile track, Adios Harry holds the world record for pacing speed. A victory tonight would make him the biggest money-winner of all time.

Three Ohio favorites will be among the ten starters. They are Steamin Demon from Circleville, Times Square from Washington C. H. and Flaming Arrow from Waverly. Filling out the field are Belle Acton, Duane Hanover, Dale Frost, B'Haven and Diamond Hal.

The pacing derby will be staged in two heats with Steamin Demon starting in the pole position and Times Square in the No. 10 spot.

Webb Now Ready For Bigger Game

CHICAGO (AP)—Spider Webb, who took his revenge bout from Charley Joseph, says he's ready for all comers in the middleweight bracket "including Gene Fullmer and Joey Giambra."

Webb, the No. 6 ranked middleweight, was fortunate to gain a split decision Wednesday night from Joseph in a local battle.

The Chicagoan scored heavily in a hot seventh round to even matters with Joseph, who whipped Webb in New Orleans in June.

Drivers Can Claim Deer After Wreck

A new state law allowing motorists to claim carcasses of deer killed by their automobiles becomes effective August 15 according to Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative.

The law allows a resident owner of an auto which has killed a deer to obtain the carcass by reporting the accident to a game warden within 24 hours. After investigation, game wardens will be authorized to give certificates entitling motorists to ownership of the dead animals.

Also effective August 15 is another law which will help many Ohio counties have modern airports and landing fields, Representative Wallace said.

The measure permits county commissioners to lease county land for airports, landing fields or air navigational facilities for periods up to 20 years, renewable for similar periods. Heretofore, such leases were limited to one year.

Czech Discus Star Enters U. S. Meet

CLEVELAND (AP)—Olga Fikotova Connolly, the Czech woman discus champion who married an American hammer-thrower, gets her first shot at the American outdoor AAU Women's championship here this weekend.

She will compete Saturday against Earline Brown of California, holder of the American discus record.

About 150 women athletes are entered in the annual outdoor meet at suburban Shaker High School. Girls 14 to 17 compete Friday, followed on Saturday by the open division.

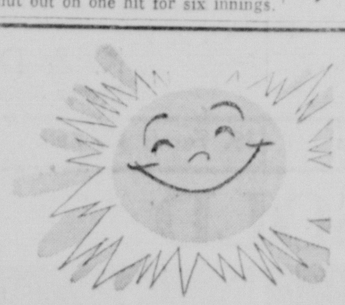

Detroit Denies Tighe Faces Boot

DETROIT (AP)—Scattered rumors that Jack Tighe is about to be fired as manager of the Detroit Tigers are "the products of somebody's wild imagination," General Manager John J. McHale says.

"We've heard the rumors, too," said McHale, "but there's absolutely nothing to them. Every time a club is going badly these reports crop up."

Reports that the Tiger front office is dissatisfied with the rookie skipper have been circulating on and off for about a month.

Golfers Launch Big Gold Rush

$101,200 'World' Test Gets Its Start Today

CHICAGO (AP) — They open the starting gate today for golf's gold rush, sending 100 men pros into frantic competition for shares of the $101,200 "World" championship at Tam O'Shanter.

Winner of the 72-hole struggle ending Sunday will receive $50,000 in cash plus a $50,000 exhibition contract. The champion virtually becomes the year's leading money winner with just this one victory.

Ted Kroll, the 1956 winner with a 15-under-par 273, thinks it will take about 277 to cash in this time.

"I had to finish with a 66 to win," he said. "It probably will take another such final round to get as low as 273. I don't think it will be done this time. Just ask who would settle right now for a 277 and you will find plenty of them."

There isn't a pro in the field who would attempt to handicap the tournament for the record. If you seek a favorite, you will get a list of at least eight names.

Those most frequently mentioned are five comparative youngsters — Gene Littler, whose course-record-matching 63 in the last round of the All American Monday boosted him to runner-up spot; Dow Finsterwald, the PGA's second leading money winner; Fred Hawkins, who took second in the "World" last year; and Bill Casper and Paul Harney, both with their games at a peak.

Sam Snead, leading money winner Doug Ford with $39,856, and Roberto de Vicenzo head the list of more seasoned contenders.

De Vicenzo, the strapping South American who registers out of Mexico City, won the All American sideshow and $3,500 with 273. But only once before has an All American winner also taken the "World" title, Lloyd Mangrum did it in 1948.

Among the women pros, Patty Berg will try for her fourth "World" title after winning the All American for the fifth time — a feat matched only by the late Babe Zaharias.

Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., tops a field of 12 for the women's amateur division.

Defending champion Ward Wettlaufer of Buffalo, N. Y., and crooner Don Cherry, the All American winner, are among favorites in the field of 12 men amateurs.

Lions Lose First Tilt

GE clipped the Lions, 5-1, in an exhibition tilt at Ted Lewis Park last night. It marked the first time the Lions have lost a game in local play this year.

Hurler Bob Caudill allowed the first place Babe Ruth Leaguers only one hit, a scratch bunt by substitute fielder Lee Smith. The winners collected eight bingles off Bruce Chelikowsky.

Harry Strawser paced GE's hitting attack, getting two safeties in two trips, including a double.

Kiwanis, Eshelmans Score Triumphs in Diamond Tilts

Kiwanis and Eshelmans were victorious in baseball contests played at Ted Lewis Park last night.

Kiwanis Little Leaguers downed New Car Dealers, 7-1, and Eshelmans Mosquito men took the measure of DuPont in a close one, 3-2.

Manager David (Red) Crawford's Little League nine, winners of the Little League first round, suffered a convincing defeat at the hands of brother Ken Crawford's Kiwanis sluggers. The win gives Kiwanis undisputed possession of first place in the second round.

Garold Dade of Kiwanis proved to be a thorn in the side of the Car Dealers, pitching two-hit ball and cracking a two run homer. Gary Lagore hurled for the Carmen, allowing only four hits.

* * *

ESHELMAN'S win was fashioned behind the two-hit pitching of Billy Dore and some extra-base hitting by his teammates. The winners' Johnny Funk, Barry Hennis and Jimmy Moorehead each smacked a double.

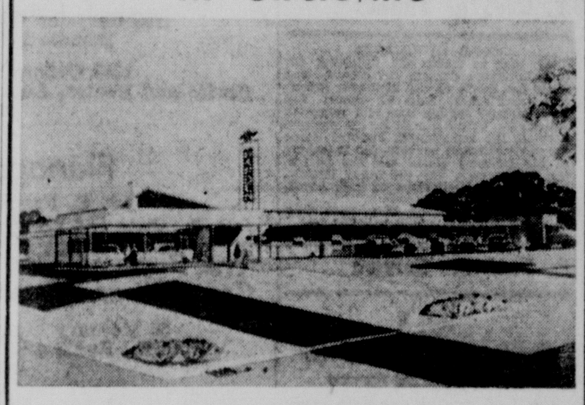

Eddie Smith hurled for DuPont, allowing five hits. He also collected one of his team's two hits, a double.

Eshelmans scored twice in the first inning and once in the third. The DuPonters rallied for two markers in the last frame but ran out of steam before they could deadlock the score.

Twice this season Brooklyn Dodger southpaw ace Johnny Podres won games to prevent the National League champions from going into a tailspin.

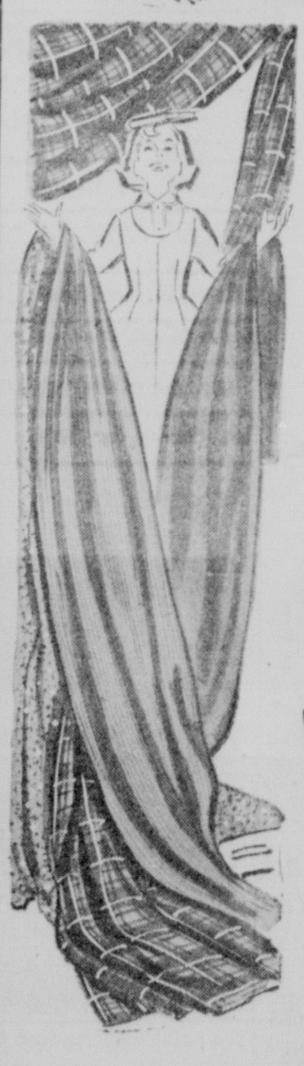

Joe Cunningham, St. Louis Cardinal reserve first baseman, batted .320 and hit 11 home runs for Rochester, N. Y., in the International League in 1956.

French To Honor Thomas Jefferson

France's Maison Carree as it looks at night.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

NIEMS, France — The building which so fascinated Thomas Jefferson that he persuaded fellow Virginians to design their state capitol in Richmond upon its classic lines may become the center here of a memorial to the third President of the United States.

It is one of the most famous relics of the Roman world, the Maison Carree, a Greek-style colonnaded temple built around 17 B.C. either by Roman Emperor Augustus or his son-in-law, Agrippa.

Mayor Edgar Tailhade of Niems recently called the city council's attention to what he calls the irony of millions of post cards of the Virginia capitol bearing mention of the temple as the source of Jefferson's inspiration, "yet many Americans, especially those interested in colonial history and architecture, annually visit this southern France city and do not find the slightest reference to the great American President."

The proposal is to remedy this by renaming the main square in front of the monument, "Place Thomas Jefferson," and putting a marble plaque in the temple itself. The influential provincial newspaper, Midi Libre, is backing the drive. Chicago lawyer and former Democratic national party chairman Stephen A. Mitchell, a frequent visitor to Niems, has given the local committee a thick dossier on Jefferson.

Although perhaps not as great a national hero here as is Benjamin Franklin, Jefferson never-the-less holds a warm place in the hearts of Frenchmen. When it was a burning issue in American politics, he often was accused of being "pro-French."

JEFFERSON went to France in 1784 as assistant to Franklin and John Adams in negotiating commercial treaties with European states, and he remained as minister until 1789. He often visited here on trips from Paris, and told friends that once he spent ten days just gazing upon the Maison Carree.

Jefferson wrote enthusiastically to James Madison: "The Maison Caree is one of the most beautiful, if not the most beautiful and precious of architecture left to us by antiquity. Connoisseurs of architure agree that it was surpassed by none of the magnificent monuments of Greece."

Although a lawyer, Jefferson holds a high ranking in architecture for his many influential suggestions and designs which he made "modestly but persistently."

The Maison Caree greatly conditioned his views on building design, and he imported his ideas into many structures, including the University of Virginia and his own Monticello, which in turn are reflected in much American architecture.

* * *

What Jefferson wrote to Madison still holds true, and France is proud that it has a better preserved Roman monument than any in Italy itself. Made of superb white stone similar to marble, it measures 80 feet long, 46 feet wide and 52 feet high. Because of the striking effect, it is illuminated dramatically at night, like the Jefferson Memorial in Washington, D. C.

Six graceful Corinthian columns form the facade. The frieze and cornice are renowned for their perfection, but the true stroke of the builders' genius was in avoiding monotony by varying the distance between the columns, 11 on each side of the temple.

Jefferson displayed his own genius by departing from the Maison Caree design just enough for the Virginia capitol not to be a mere replica, but instead to represent an adaption of a classical building.

Dr. Jake Nolen Named Head Of DuPont Technical Section

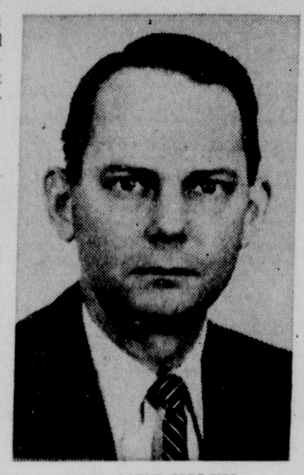

The Du Pont Company's Film Department has established a "Mylar" polyester film technical section at its Circleville plant for process and technical development work.

Dr. Jake T. Nolen, assistant manager of the Circleville plant since it began the first commercial production of "Mylar" three years ago, has been appointed manager of the section.

Dr. Nolen said that the new group will bring additional technical effort to improvements in process and product. It will work with the company's Yerkes Research Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y., and with the Circleville plant technical section, handling developments in their intermediate stage between laboratory bench and commercial application.

Dr. Nolen has been associated with "Mylar" since 1951, when he was given the assignment of coordinating activities of the research, production, and engineering groups engaged in scaling up production of the new film from semi-works to full-size commercial plant. As assistant plant manager he has continued to work on improvements in manufacturing process and quality of the product.

A NATIVE of Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dr. Nolen received the degree of bachelor of science in chemical engineering from the University of

DR. JAKE NOLEN

Alabama in 1938, and that of doctor of science in chemical engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1946. He served as a lieutenant colonel in the Chemical Warfare Service from 1942 until 1946, when he joined DuPont as a chemical engineer.

Strongest of the plastic films, "Mylar" has excellent electrical insulating properties, is resistant to attack by most chemicals, and retains its properties under extremes of heat and cold. It has found wide acceptance for such diverse uses as electrical insulation, packaging, sound recording tapes, pressure sensitive tapes, as a base for metallic textile yarn, and in laminations with other films, fabrics, leather, and other materials where a tough and durable protective and decorative surface is desired.

New facilities are being installed at the Circleville plant to increase its productive capacity by 50 per cent. It is expected that the new facilities will be ready for operation in the spring of 1958.

Ohio Bus Firm Faces Lawsuit

DALLAS (AP)—An Ohio bus manufacturer, the Flexible Co. of Loudonville, has been sued for $5,778,578 by a Texas transit system for allegedly faulty operation of 111 two-level type buses purchased from the firm.

The Transcontinental Bus System and its six affiliated companies in a suit filed Wednesday alleges the buses purchased in 1955 at a cost of $32,000 each immediately began to break down. Transcontinental said this resulted in a $1 million loss in passenger revenues as well as loses from failure of the buses to operate 35 per cent of their assigned mileage.

Medina Opponents Set

MEDINA (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Winter, a Lodi attorney, and Mayor C. B. McClure of Medina will be opponents for the newly established Municipal Court judgeship here.

Doubting that Eighteenth Century American builders could emulate the complicated Corinthian columns of the Romans, Jefferson prvided for Ionic capitals, and created a mode which spread throughout America.

U.S., France Suffer Varied Money Trouble

No Crisis Here, but French Franc Shows Varied Fluctuations

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The French today are having another money crisis. It comes in an era of almost unprecedented good times when you might think a money crisis unlikely.

In the United States there's no money crisis but there are sizable money troubles — both for those managing a business and those managing a family, and also even for Uncle Sam. This also comes in an era of generally good times.

The French franc has sort of unofficially devaluated itself by dropping to the lowest point in five years on the black market.

The American dollar is in no danger whatsoever of devaluation and there is no black market. But its purchasing power is being slowly (and also unofficially) devalued by the rising cost of living for consumers and rising costs of doing business and running the government.

In both counties those being hurt the most are much the same—small businessmen, small farmers, the white collar workers, those on fixed incomes. Those seemingly hurt the least are the bigger businesses and those with strong unions. They find it easier to ride the wage-price spiral (at least for the time being) and to surmount the tight credit, costlier money conditions which, it is hoped, will slow down inflation.

In France the remedy they talk of trying is either official devaluation—which could prove to be only a sedative, not a cure—or austerity.

Here the word austerity isn't heard and isn't likely to be. The nearest approach to it are the words restraint—restraint by labor in asking higher wages, restraing by business in raising price—or higher interest rates.

Higher costs chalked up this week in the United States include: Higher interest rates on government - guaranteed home mortgages, higher interest charged by some banks on business loans, freight rate hikes of 7 per cent for Eastern and Western railroads and of 4 per cent for Southern roads, and a promise by the Civil Aeronautics Board that it will speed up its study of airline passenger fares which the companies call too low.

America's dollar problems look small when you look at those in France. The French franc has the shakes largely from imbibing too much prosperity too fast.

France is having an industrial boom. To feed that boom it has imported more materials than it has exported, weakening its currency dangerously in terms of those of other nations.

Sohio Is Cleared By Prosecutor

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio is not violating any state law by purchasing gasoline from independent refineries during the strike which the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union called at Sohio refineries June 7, Prosecutor John T. Corrigan ruled Wednesday.

He said the union had asked him to look into whether the company was marketing under its brand name products which were not its own. Corrigan said the company was buying gasoline according to specification and adding ingredients at distribution centers to make the product similar to that sold before the walkout.

Ex-Ohio Dem Chief Faces Accusations

NEW PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Former state Democratic Chairman Arthur Limbach, 62, has posted $500 bond for appearance next week on charges of driving an automobile while his license was suspended, failing to surrender the suspended license, and making false statements in applying for renewal of the license.

The state highway patrol filed the charges against Limbach with Prosecutor Wilford Miller of Tuscarawas County. Limbach was convicted of driving while under the influence of an intoxicating beverage on Oct. 22, 1955. He was arrested on a similar charge July 13 and forfeited $125 bond by failing to appear at a hearing July 15.

Straub, 54, a lawyer and former municipal and common pleas court judge in Toledo, would succeed Scovel Richardson who has been named a judge of the U. S. Customs Court. Straub is a Republican.
